The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones in Chicago and other large cities.

For Sunday Schools.

THE BEACON LIGHT. Sunday School Song Book by J. H. TENNEY and E. A. HOFFMAN. Specimen copies mailed for 30 cents. Liberal reduction for quantities. DITSON & Co. respectfully call attention to the marked improvement which is apparent in their newer publications for Sunday Schools. The best talent in the country has been employed in compiling them, and they have been received with marked favor. THE BEACON LIGHT is the work of two of the best hymn and tune composers in the country, is a carefully "winnowed" book, only the best 100 out of 500 manuscripts having been retained. We have not many Sunday School hymns better than

"Love of the Saviour, tender and precious,
Deeper and broader than ocean or sea,
Stronger than death, so pure and so gracious,
Oh, in thy fullness flow sweetly to me."

"He who conquers, wins a crown
When he lays his armor down,
For we bear the cross no more,
When we reach the golden shore."

Attention is also directed to WHITE ROBES (30 cts.) by Abbey and Munger; and to GOOD NEWS (35 cts.) by H. M. McIntosh. These excellent books are still in demand. Their authors have also new books in progress, which will soon be announced.

J. W. KITTREDGE, Agent ELIXIR of LIFE Rock:

Dear Sir:—Having suffered intensely for four years with disease of the Kidneys, after having during that time tried various medicines without obtaining relief, I was induced to try a bottle of your ELIXIR of LIFE ROCK, and it affords me pleasure to say that one bottle of it completely cured me. I recommend it as the only valuable and certain cure for kidney troubles I have ever seen. I would add, that before taking your medicine I had become so weak that I was about to give up work. Hoping that others who have suffered like myself may be so fortunate as to try your valuable medicine, I remain,

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Journal says: A steam-boat is to be launched on the Androscoggin. Some Lewiston young men have formed a company and have purchased a small steamer, that will carry about twenty-five passengers. They expect to launch her in about two weeks. They propose to keep the steamer for the use of private pleasure parties on the river, this summer.

Statistics reported to the Superintendent of Schools shows that there has been a decrease of 40 per cent. in the amount of corporal punishment employed in enforcing discipline by the teachers in the public schools of Lewiston, in the past three years. The corporal punishment question has been prolific of much discussion in all our leading cities of late. Superintendent Phipps in lectures, and otherwise has expressed his opinion to our school-teachers, that while this mode of discipline is highly necessary at times, yet, if resorted to in cases where milder punishment should have been used, it is an indication that teachers had missed their calling.

Cumberland.

In the Circuit Court at Portland, Friday morning was devoted to showing the details of the negotiation of the bonds in the Farmington case and the use made of the proceeds, and the testimony directed to showing the proceeds were devoted to the object authorized by vote of the town—the extension of the railroad. Evidence was introduced showing the benefit the village corporation had received from the extension of the road, as indicated by the greatly increased valuation of property situated within the village corporation as compared with the rest of the town. The case was continued until June 9th for hearing, when Judge Lowell & Fox can both sit on the bench.

A few days ago three salmon trout were caught in Songo River, whose aggregate weight was 38 pounds.

The Bridgton News says that Moulton & Merrow, of Saccarappa, are having their logs—say 100,000 feet—driven down the Songo and Lake Sebago.

Franklin.

A correspondent to the Lewiston Journal writes: Mrs. Lucy Stone lectured at Farmington, Thursday evening, under the auspices of the M. E. ladies' circle. Her topic was "Woman Sufferage," and it was ably handled. Although perhaps, her arguments were not conclusive to all, yet she spoke as one who deemed her subject worthy of strong effort, and in a lady-like and unostentatious manner.——Rev. C. F. Allen preached the opening sermon of his pastorate here at the Methodists, last Sabbath, and was listened to by a large audience. Mr. Allen is well known and highly esteemed in this vicinity.

Kennebec.

The Mail says that the Elmwood hotel, at Waterville, has passed into the hands of Colby University—Mr. Seavy, who is under advantageous engagements elsewhere, having concluded to abandon the enterprise.

The Journal says that Mrs. Wm. Jinkins, of Augusta, Friday night took a dose of oil of cedar, which threw her into epileptic fits. In her paroxysms, she bit a piece from the finger of one her little boys. She was brought out of her spasm after several hours.

Knox.

The Opinion says that Wednesday evening, lightning struck the chimney of a house in Thomaston, occupied by Anson Booker, and appears to have divided, as there was a furrow made where the shingles were torn up on the roof. The outer part of the chimney was demoralized, and the fluid followed down into the house, knocking the bricks out into the sitting room, where Mr. Booker was lying on the sofa, and his wife standing. They were both knocked senseless. The fluid passed from there into the kitchen, making a hole about the size of a bullet, and ripping up some of the floor boards. It also entered the parlor, tearing off some of the plastering and turning the gilt of the border black on three sides of the room. The inside casings of the windows, up stairs and down, were started off.

Lincoln.

The lobster canning factory has done a heavy business thus far this season, says the Reporter, under the efficient superintendence of Mr. Frank L. Smith. 175,000 pounds of lobsters were put up in April, requiring constant labor during the day, and part of each night. The catch of lobsters is increasing and the season promises to show heavy work. Four smacks are employed collecting the lobsters from Georgetown to Bremen. Mr. Smith has already paid out $2,500 for lobsters, labor and other purposes of the factory.

Somerset.

The Fairfield Journal says that diphtheria and scarlet fever have made their appearance in Fairfield.——During the year of 1880, there were shipped from the Fairfield station, 1,306 full loaded cars of freight.

CONKLING'S MELODRAMATICS.

Now we know the character of the "startling" and "tremendous" move of Senator Conkling which the correspondents have been darkly and mysteriously hinting ever since it became evident that the President would not consent to lie down and let the New York Senator walk over him. To the general public the sensational and melodramatic performance of Mr. Conkling and his echo, Senator Platt, in resigning their seats in the Senate, will appear exceedingly silly, and very like the spiteful pouting of two angry boys.

Apparently the notion of Messrs. Conkling and Platt is to fill the country with alarm lest by their retirement from the superintendence of government, the affairs of the Nation shall fall into ruin and chaos come again. We don't think the American people will abandon all hope of the perpetuity of free institutions, even if so dangerous a personage as an angry "Primate" and his man Friday shall make themselves ridiculous by shaking the dust of the Senate from their feet.

It is obvious that this theatrical performance is intended either to intimidate and bulldoze the President and their Republican colleagues in the Senate, or to attempt to ease Conkling's anticipated defeat, by getting the Legislature of New York to re-elect him and Platt which would be claimed by them as an endorsement. It may already be assumed that the latter experiment was not resorted to until the noses of the Legislature had been carefully counted by Speaker Sharpe and other of the Conkling whippers-in; and even if both Senators should be returned to their seats by the same Legislature that hailed the nomination of Judge Robertson for Collector with resolutions of enthusiastic approval, it would in no way indicate that the members endorse or sympathize with the Conkling attempt to dictate to the President. Messrs. Conkling and Platt are in no need of asking the Legislature of New York to express favor for them as Senators, as both of them have been thus honored, and no one is questioning the rights or the home support of either in their legitimate sphere as members of the Senate. The resignations are wholly sensational, and palpably modeled after the passionate urchin who threatened to bite off his toe if he couldn't have a raspberry tart.

The calm observer will at once note that these resignations have been tendered in advance of any action by anybody that could afford even a flimsy pretext for such a demonstration. In the Robertson case, if they are actuated by that, there has been absolutely nothing done as yet, except the mere submission of that gentleman's name by the President to the consideration of the Senate; the withdrawal of some other New York nominations in which Conkling has since declared that he had no interest; the smothering of Robertson's nomination thus far in Conkling's committee; and the adoption by the Republican caucus of an order of business prepared by Mr. Conkling expressly to prevent the Senate from voting on Judge Robertson's case. The case has not yet been taken from Conkling's committee, the Senate has not voted or acted upon it, and the President has done nothing but leave the case to be disposed of as the Senate shall see fit.

Until within a few days there was the loudest boasting that Mr. Conkling would win his triumph in the Senate by having Robertson's nomination rejected. Now he confesses his abandonment of that hope and resigns his seat before the vote is taken. Perhaps he trusts that this demonstration may frighten some timid Senators and thus affect action on Robertson's nomination. We hope there is not in that body so small-souled a Republican as to be influenced by such a manifestation of the rule or ruin spirit. Senator Conkling is as arbitrary in his assumption to control all the Republicans of the Senate, as he is in his demand for subservience to his will by the President. The Senate will best consult its own dignity and command the respect of the people by proceeding promptly with the public business, without regard to the petulance and folly of two men who may as well now as at any time be taught that they do not turn the crank that runs the universe, or control the destiny of the great Republican Party.

The official statistics of the total production of spirits in France, in 1880, place the amount at 1,581,088 hectolitres, an excess of 93,189 hectolitres over the production of 1879, and of 35,169 over the average production of the last ten years. The figures show a large increase in distilled spirits, and a considerable falling off in the production of wine and cider. The exports of liquors have diminished, and the imports have increased. The home consumption has advanced rapidly, which seems to bear out the reports that have been lately made concerning the increase of drunkenness among the French people.

In California, in engrossing the Tax Levy bill, the clause fixing the rate of taxation was omitted by mistake of the clerk. The Governor signed the bill before the error was discovered. The Legislature had then adjourned. Previous to the adjournment the Governor announced his willingness to call another extra session if a majority so desired, but at the time most of the members had left the town. The Governor privately expressed the opinion that the omission of the clause in the Tax Levy bill will not invalidate it, but good lawyers hold the contrary.

The Tribune says the control of the Northern Pacific Railroad by the Villard Combination appears to have been accomplished. An agreement has been made by which Villard buys the Northern Pacific stock of President Billings, amounting to about $9,000,000, and consents to the discontinuance of suits brought against the company to annul its recent issue of $18,000,000 in stock. On the other hand Villard is to have a majority of the seats in the Board of Directors.

Conversation was carried on between Dover, England, and Calais, France, on Saturday, by means of the submarine cable and a new apparatus called the electrophone. It is claimed that by this means conversations may be carried on across the Atlantic.

The dowry of Whitelaw Reid's bride, as given in the published accounts of the wedding, is greater than that of the Princess Stephanie, who married the Crown Prince of Austria, the latter being $450,000, while Mr. O. D. Mills made his daughter a wedding gift of a check for $500,000.

PERSONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Even the New York Sun congratulates Secretary Windom on the success of his funding scheme.

Hannibal Hamlin is the only person alive among those who ran on the four Presidential tickets of 1860.

The London correspondent of the Chicago Times telegraphs that under very strong pressure Princess Louise has consented to return to Canada in June, and that the same influences are operating to induce her husband, the Marquis of Lorne, to consent to retain his present position as Governor General of Canada.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is still very ill at the home of her brother-in-law in Springfield, Ill., and is cared for by her sisters-Mrs. Ninian W. Edwards and Mrs. C. M. Smith. Should her strength permit the journey, she will probably be brought to New York city next month for medical treatment.

In a caucus of the Republican Supervisors of Albany county, a few days since, six out of nine voted to make the Journal the county paper. The minority of three thereupon joined with six Democrats and made the Express—the subservient Conkling organ—the official paper. Conkling men do not hesitate to bolt caucus decisions when it serves their purpose.

The President, through the Secretary of the Navy, invited Theodore D. Woolsey, LL. D., to be a member of visitors at the Naval Academy. His reply was received to-day. In it he says: "From the middle of November I have been in a great degree shut up on account of illness; and although now considerably better, should not venture on any journey away from my comforts at home and my physician."

The Cincinnati Commercial, which was one of the most emphatic advocates of the silver dollar, in noting the probable failure of the Monetary Conference to establish a double standard, says that the United States is one of the few nations that can afford to stand on gold, and that under the circumstances "it is our true policy now to stop the coinage of silver and wait until we are invited to a bi-metallic international conference by England and Germany."

A rather singular disease among cattle seems to be quite prevalent in the vicinity of Milford, N. H., and a number of drovers have sustained heavy losses by the malady. A fine herd of young stock, while en route to their summer quarters, Wednesday, were stricken down, and eleven died. The butchers in that vicinity thought it might be on account of the sudden hot weather, but undoubtedly it is a blood poison or other disease. The animals stagger about, and live only from one to five hours after being attacked.

NEW MAGAZINES.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE for June opens with a well illustrated article on the Lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay, which is full of fine touches in the way of description, and will no doubt have the effect of sending many summer tourists over a line which presents so many noble features different from those of more familiar routes. The third chapter of Dr. Oswald's Zoological Curiosities treats amusingly of "our four-handed relatives," and has some capital illustrations. Among the Cowboys, by Louis C. Bradford, is an excellent sketch of the life of the Texan herdsman and of the career of King and other great cattle owners. Mr. Dorman B. Eaton discusses the subject of Tenure of Office, which, as our readers know, is not only an important one, but likely before long to lead to practical issues. Rowland Connor writes critically but genially of the Moral Reformers, who blossom out annually at Boston during "anniversary week." An American Salon in Rome, by C. R. Corson, introduces Miss Brewster and her circle, regarding whom Miss Tinker's new novel, By the Tiber, has just been piquing the interest of a good many readers. There are several capital short stories and sketches in the number. What Sooz'n Did, by Margaret Bertha Wright, a Russian Petruchio, by Vera Lapoukhyn, His Brother Philip, by Frank Lewees, Taking the Train, etc. The serial, Croque-o'-Doom, reaches a dramatic climax in this number and shows varied power on the part of the writer. The poetry is by Maurice Thompson and Louise Chandler Moulton. The editorial departments are well sustained, and the varied character of the number is popular and entertaining.

DITSON & CO. respectfully call attention to the marked improvement which is apparent in their newer publications for Sunday Schools. The best talent in the country has been employed in compiling them, and they have been received with marked favor. We have not many Sunday School hymns better than

"Love of the Saviour, tender and precious,
Deeper and broader than ocean or sea,
Stronger than death, so pure and so gracious,
Oh, in thy fullness flow sweetly to me."

or

"He who conquers, wins a crown
When he lays his armor down,
For we bear the cross no more,
When we reach the golden shore."

FORTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Special Session of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 16.

Mr. Burnside, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, reported back favorably from that committee the resolution declaring the consent of the U. S. Government to be a condition precedent to the construction of ship canals, or other ways, for the transportation of sea-going vessels across the Isthmus, and also to the rules and organizations under which other nations shall participate in the use of such canals. Burnside gave notice that he would call it up to-morrow.

Mr. Dawes moved an Executive session.

Mr. Cockerell—I thought you wanted to consider other resolutions.

Mr. Dawes—I had no idea but that the Senator would like to go on with it. It is in accordance with the disposition which he has shown from the beginning.

Mr. Hill of Georgia—The Senator said the Republic would be subverted if the resolution was not acted upon.

Mr. Dawes—But the Senator would never be convinced until he happened to have a majority.

Mr. Hill—Oh, we won't insist upon having it considered.

Mr. Dawes—An accident is an eye opener to the Senator.

Mr. Hill turned around and suggested to Executive session for a reconsideration of the vote by which (at the second preceding session) Judge Stanley Matthews was confirmed as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, his confirmation stands fixed, and the President has this afternoon been notified accordingly.

When the doors were reopened the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

Conkling's Sensation.

[illegible] Stir.

AND EXPECT THE SUN AND MOON WILL STAND STILL.

BUT THEY WONT!

The Letter of Resignation.

A SOMEWHAT REMARKABLE DOCUMENT.

"Lord" Roscoe Shows Where the Shoe Pinches.

How the Matter is Viewed in New York.

The Vice President laid the following communication before the Senate upon its assembling:

WASHINGTON, May 16.

To C. A. Arthur, Vice President.

SIR:—Will you please announce to the Senate that my resignation as Senator of the United State from New York has been forwarded to the Governor of the State.

I have the honor to be with great respect, your obedient servant,

ROSCOE CONKLING.

This communication was received amid a great sensation which was heightened when the Vice President presented the following:

SENATE CHAMBER, May 16, '81.

To C. A. Arthur, Vice President.

SIR:—I have forwarded to the Governor of the State of New York my resignation as Senator of the United States for that State. Will you please announce the fact to the Senate?

With great respect, your obedient servant,

T. C. PLATT.

A hum of astonishment followed the reading of the communication and Hill, of Ga., suggested, sotto voce, that this would be a good time to elect officers of the Senate.

Comments of the Press.

NEW YORK, May 16. The Evening Post says of the resignations of the New York Senators:

To-day, for the first time since the organization of the Government, the State of New York is without any representative in the Senate of the United States. Roscoe Conkling and Thos. C. Platt have forwarded their resignations to Gov. Cornell, and have formally announced the fact to the Vice President. The first comment on the proceeding is that it is a genuine surprise. If the report was less circumstantial it might be regarded as the not very ingenious invention of some practical humorist in Washington. The rumor that Senator Platt, after voting for Robertson in obedience to some undefined obligation, would resign, was regarded some time ago as an idle rumor. Until the Senators shall vouchsafe an explanation of their course there is wide room for conjecture as to its meaning. If they are seeking an "endorsement" of their conduct by means of re-election, the experiment is a dangerous one. To make with a Legislature that a little while ago unanimously approved the nomination of Robertson. Perhaps, after all, the simplest explanation is the true one. Perhaps Conkling and Platt have concluded that if the Senate is anything more than an instrument for the distribution of patronage their occupation is gone and they can do the State no further service.

Boss Tweed's Friend, Hugh Hastings, Defends the Resignations.

The Commercial Advertiser says: Roscoe Conkling has returned into the hands of the Republicans of New York the high trust they have confided to him for fourteen years. The great leader of the Republican party of the Union, the statesman who stands head and shoulders above all his associates in ability, integrity and in the services he has rendered the Republican cause, has resigned his position as Senator. To this act he has been driven by the duplicity, treachery and malignity of the Administration. This rebuke to the Blaine, Garfield cabal is pointed by the action of the junior Senator from this State, who joins his distinguished colleague in his retirement and places his resignation also in the Governor's hands.

Conkling's Organ Mews.

NEW YORK, May 16. The Herald calls for the retirement of Secretary Blaine and a reorganization of the Cabinet as a solution of the present difficulties.

Some Plain Talk and Good Advice from the Tribune.

The Tribune says no one takes the resignations seriously. Neither Conkling nor Platt has any idea of leaving the Senate. We are induced to think that no objection will be raised any where in the State to the playing out of this opera bouffe representation. Our Senators have made themselves rather ridiculous, but the people who elected them once will, of course, elect them again and send them back to serve out their terms. Only Senate should permit so shallow a trick to interfere with the despatch of public business in their absence. They can go on, get through with their work and go home, not mourning over their sulky colleagues as those without help.

They will meet them again in December with new credentials and we trust with much more sense and better manners than they have shown in the last month.

How the News was Received in New York.

NEW YORK, May 16. In relation to the resignations of Senators Conkling and Platt, the following expressions of opinion by leading citizens are printed:

Collector Merritt was so surprised he could express no opinion.

Thurlow Weed expressed great surprise. He thought the action of the Senators had not improved matters.

John Kelly said: "The resignation of Conkling will show conclusively his strength in the party. I do not believe that his and Platt's resignations will be accepted.

A most extraordinary thing, said ex-Governor Morgan. He could not account for for it, and thought the resignations would be withdrawn.

Congressman Einstein thought Gov. Cornell would not accept Conkling's resignation, but in event of his Excellency's doing so the Legislature would re-elect him.

Jos. H. Choate was glad to hear of the resignations and said it was the best news he had heard for years.

Wm. E. Dodge thought the general feeling among the people of this State will be one of gratitude.

B. B. Sherman, President of Mechanics' National Bank, did not think the resignations would cause any serious detriment to New York, or the country. He said, I am much surprised at what has taken place, though I thought there would be trouble when the President selected Mr. Blaine as one of his advisers. Foreigners now don't think much of a republican form of government, and if we go on cutting up in this way they will have less confidence in it than ever.

At the White House.

The Telegram's Washington despatch says: When the announcement was made to President Garfield he was seized with astonishment and exclaimed, "I don't believe it." After hearing verifications of the news he despatched a messenger to the Rumors at the State Capital.

ALBANY, May 16. When the news of the resignations of Messrs. Conkling and Platt was received it was bulletined, but elicited little interest. The hotels as usual on Mondays were quite empty, and those who talked of the matter simply wondered what would be the next move. Later the members of the Legislature commenced arriving when some interest was manifested. No one, however, appeared to know what would be the result. Not a few thought both Senators would be re-elected, and it was suggested that Conkling would be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Platt. This would give him two years more than he had to serve. Several rumors are set on foot, among them one that there will be a union of anti-Conklingites with the Democrats to elect one Senator from their wing and one Democrat; but the most general impression is that both will be re-elected and thus show a legislative endorsement of the positions they have occupied, in order to counteract the influence of the resolutions of the Senate and Assembly endorsing Senator Robertson's nomination.

The Letter of Resignation.

The following is the letter of resignation signed by Messrs. Platt and Conkling and addressed to Gov. Cornell:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.

SIR: Transmitting as we do our resignations respectively of the great trusts with which New York has honored us, it is fit that we acquaint you and through you the Legislature and people of the State with the reasons, which in our judgment, make such a step respectful and necessary. Some weeks ago the President sent to the Senate in a group the nominations of several persons for public offices already filled. One of these offices is the Collectorship of the port of New York, now held by General Merritt; another is the Consul Generalship at London, now held by General Badeau; another is Charge de' Affairs to Denmark now held by Mr. Cramer; another is the mission to Switzerland now held by Mr. Fish, son of the former distinguished Secretary of State. Mr. Fish had, in deference to an ancient practice, placed his position at the disposal of the new Administration, but like other persons named he was ready to remain at his post if permitted to do so.

All of these officers, save only Mr. Cramer, are citizens of New York. We proposed to displace them all, not for any alleged faults or for any alleged need or advantage of public service, but in order to give the great office of Collector of the port of New York to Mr. William H. Robertson as a "reward" for certain acts of his, said to have aided in making the nomination of General Garfield possible. The nomination of Badeau proposed was broken by Gen. Badeau promptly declining to accept the new place to which he was to be sent. These nominations summoned every member of the Senate to say whether he advised such a transaction.

The movement was more than a surprise. We had been told only a few hours before that no removals in New York offices were soon to be made, or were considered, and had been requested to withhold the papers and any suggestions bearing on the subject which had been sent to us for presentation should the occasion arise, until we had notice from the President of his readiness to receive them. Learning that the Vice President was equally surprised and had been equally misled, we went to Mr. James, Cabinet officer from our State, and learned that though he had spent some time with the President on the morning of the day the nominations were sent in, no disclosure of an intention to send them had been made to him, and that he first knew of the matter by hearsay following the event.

After earnest reflection and consultation we believed the proceeding unwise and wrong, whether considered with reference to the personal and integrity of the public service and public example to be set, or in relation also to the integrity of the Republican party. No public utterance of comment or censure was made by either of us in the Senate or elsewhere. On the contrary we thought that the President would reconsider the action so suddenly and hastily, and would at least accept letters and telegrams in great numbers came from every part of the State, from its leading citizens, protesting against the proposed changes, and condemning them on many grounds. Several thousands of the leading merchants, firms of New York, constituting, we are informed, a majority of every branch of trade, sent remonstrances. Sixty of the eighty-one Republican members of the Assembly by letter, or memorial, made objections. Representatives in Congress, State officials, business men, professional men, commercial, industrial and political organizations are among the remonstrants, and they speak from every section of the State.

Besides the nominations already referred to there were awaiting the action of the Senate, several citizens of New York named for offices connected with the courts—District Attorneys and Marshals. These were all reappointments. Most of them had been originally commissioned by Mr. Hayes. They were certified by the judges of the courts and many other eminent persons, who attested faithfulness and merit of their service and recommended their continuance. They were not presented by us, we have not attempted to dictate, nor have we asked the nomination of one person. Indeed, with the sole ex after they had been weighed in the balances. Their official records were before him and had been fully scrutinized and approved.

It must be presumed he thought the nominations fit to be made and that it was his duty to make them. There is no allegation that he discovers unfitness in them afterward. It could hardly be he had discovered unfitness with all alike. What, then, was the meaning and purpose of this peremptory step? It was immediately stated, as if by authority, and it seems to be admitted, that the purpose was to coerce the Senate or Senators to vote as they would not vote if left free from Executive interference.

The design was to control the action of the Senators touching the matters committed by the Constitution to the Senate, and to the Senate exclusively. It suggested in addition that by recalling these nominations and holding them in his own hands, the President might in event of the failure of or other nomination use them to compensate that failure. If it can be supposed that all these public trusts are to be, or would in any event, be made personal perquisites, to be handled and disposed of, not only to punish independence of Senatorial votes and action, but to liquidate personal obligations of any individual, however high in station, the conditions are utterly vicious and degrading, and their acceptance would compel representatives of States to fling down their oath and representative duty at the footstool of the Executive power.

Following this sweeping and startling Executive act came the ominous avowals, that dissent or failure to "advise and consent" would be held an act of offence, exposing all Senators from whatever State to Executive displeasure. Thus we find ourselves confronted by the questions, whether we shall surrender the plain rights and sworn duty of Senators by consenting to what we believe to be vicious and hurtful, or be assigned a position of disloyalty to the Administration, which we helped to bring in, and the success of which we earnestly wish, for every reason and motive which can enter into the case.

We know no thing avowed by any party which requires such submission as is now exacted. Although service may be fairly considered in making selections for public officers, it can hardly be maintained that the Senate is bound to remove, without cause, incumbents merely to make places for those whom any individual, even the President or a member of his Cabinet, wishes to repay for being recreant to others to be serviceable to him. Only about two years ago the Senate advised that Mr. Merritt be appointed Collector of New York. It is understood that among the Senators who so advised was Mr. Windom now Secretary of the Treasury, and the head of the Department whose subordinate Mr. Merritt is. Another Senator known to have given this advice was Mr. Kirkwood now Secretary of the Interior.

It is said that like the Postmaster General from our own State, these Cabinet officers were not taken into consultation touching the removal of Merritt; but their secured official action as Senators is none the less instructive. That the late Secretary and the late Administration up to its expiration, less than ten weeks ago, approved Mr. Merritt as an officer, is well known, nor is it now suggested that any citizen had petitioned for his removal, or that any official delinquency on his part is the reason of it. In the place of an experienced officer in the midst of his term fixed by law, it is proposed suddenly to put a man in who has had no training for the position, and who cannot be said to have any special fitness for its official duty.

In the inaugural President Garfield declared on the 4th of March, stand these words: "Civil service can never be placed on a satisfactory basis until it is regulated by law. For the good of the service itself and for the protection of those who are entrusted with the appointing power against a waste of time and obstruction to public business, caused by an inordinate pressure for place, and for protection of incumbents against intrigue and wrong, I shall, at the proper time, ask Congress to fix the tenure of the minor offices of the several Executive departments, and the prescribed grounds upon which removals may be made during the terms for which the incumbents have been appointed."

How good the distinction is which would make major officers a prey to "intrigue" and wrong, and "shield" minor officers from a like havoc, and whether the collectorships of the country should belong to the exposed or to the protected class, need not be decided here. Assuming Mr. Merritt to be an officer of average fitness and honesty, it might be reasonably argued that all society should with alacrity advise his displacement by a man of obvious superiority, possibly; might be said all should advise the selection for Mr. Merritt's place of a man who, without superior fitness, had rendered the country or even his party, conspicuous and exalted service.

The case in hand does not belong to either of these classes. The position of Mr. Robertson and his legislative and professional experience and surroundings do not denote superiority or qualities of knowledge of business habits, and familiarity with the revenue laws and systems of the United States, which might make him more competent than Mr. Merritt to collect revenues, and administer the vast business pertaining to the port of New York. Certainly he cannot in this respect be held an exception to the rules of right and consistency on which the Constitution and laws have placed public service. We know no personal or political service rendered by Mr. Robertson so transcendent that the Collectorship of New York should be taken in the midst of a term and given to him as a recompense.

Mr. Robertson is reported by the New York Tribune to have declared that his nomination was "a reward" for his action as a delegate to the National Convention. If Mr. Robertson in his action was influenced by a sense of duty, if he voted and acted his honest convictions, it is difficult to see what claim he has for any reward—not to speak of such a gross reward. The action on which the estimate is thus incident, is understood to be this: Mr. Robertson and 69 other men accepted from the State Convention a certain trust. They ought and accepted the position of agents or delegates to the National Convention.

The State Convention declared and plainly stated that the judgment and policy was to be observed and supported by those it commissioned, and to this declaration all elected as delegates gave implied consent. But several of them in addition made most specific personal pledges and engagements to exert themselves with good faith throughout to secure the nomination of General Grant. They made this pledge as a means of obtaining their own appointment as delegates and they did, as we both personally know, obtain seats in the National Convention, upon the faith of their personal statements of their earnestness and fidelity. The obligation thus assumed, we understood, to devolve upon the integrity as much as the obligation of one who is to act by proxy for the stockholders in a corporation upon the pledge and promise to vote as his principal would vote.

Whether Mr. Robertson was or was not himself bound, not only by honor and implication, but by expressly giving his word, becomes immaterial in view of the claim for him. It is insisted that he organized the bolt, or as sometimes stated, he was leader of the bolt. This is to say, he invited and persuaded and induced others, whom he knew had given their word, and had obtained their seat by doing so, to violate their word and betray, not only the Republicans assembled in State Convention, but those Republicans of their districts as well, who had trusted in their honor.

Whoever counsels and procures another to do a dishonest or dishonorable act, must share with that other the guilt, and should have also the odium attaching to it. We are therefore wholly unable, upon whatever grounds we put it, to see justification for ourselves should we become parties to using the public trusts, which belong to the people, to require such services in such modes. But the appliances employed to effect these results set up new standards of responsibility and invade, as we believe, the truth and principles on which the separate and co-ordinate branches of the Government stand.

A Senator has his own responsibility. He is amenable to his State and to the body of which he is a member. He is bound by oath to "advise and consent," on his conscience and judgment before God, is not more jealous than ours in this regard. To give advice and honest independent advice, as to an appointment proposed, is as much the right and duty of a Senator, as it is the right or duty of the President to propose the name. Be his advice one way or the other it is no more an act of disrespect, or treason, to the nominating power than the verdict of a juror or decision of the judge.

The decree that the Senate is simply to find out what is wanted and then do it, we cannot believe safe or admissible, and thus far no party has dared or desired to set up such a test of party fidelity or allegiance. In this instance such prominence has been given to the subject, and such distrust has been expressed of the correctness of our positions, we think it right and dutiful to submit the matter to the power to which alone we are bound, and ever ready to bow. The Legislature is in session; it is Republican in majority, and New York abounds in sons quite as able as we to bear her message and commission in the Senate of the United States.

With a profound sense of the obligation we owe, with devotion to the Republican party and its creed of "liberty and right," with reverent attachment to the great State whose interests and honor are dear to us, we hold it respectful and becoming to make room for whosoever may correct all the errors we have made, and interpret aright all the duties we have misconceived. We therefore endorse our resignations, but hold fast the privilege as citizens and Republicans to stand for the constitutional rights of all men and all representatives, whether of States, Nation or people. We have the honor to be Very respectfully,

Your obedient servants,
ROSCOE CONKLING,
THOMAS C. PLATT.

To His Excellency, Gov. Cornell.

The Letter Read in the Assembly

ALBANY, May 16. The resignations and letter of explanation were read in the Assembly to-day. The stalwarts are very reticent and will not intimate what is to be done. The anti-Conklingites are in high glee. The time for going into election to fill the vacancies will be fixed to-morrow.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The Robertson Case to be Taken up at Once,

Senator Harris Mentioned as any Acceptable President of the Senate Pro Tem.

WASHINGTON, May 16. The Republican Senators held a caucus this afternoon for the purpose of determining what course should be adopted with a view of reaching action on the Robertson nomination and other contested cases, and of thus securing an early adjournment of the Senate. A few Senators spoke in favor of leaving the Robertson case in the hands of the Commerce Committee for several days longer, in the hope that some way might yet be opened up to avoid a controversy concerning it.

Several other members of the caucus, while agreeing with the speakers that the nomination of Judge Robertson was not a wise or desirable act on the part of the President, took the ground, never beless, that as an issue had been made, party interests demanded that it shall be met by sustaining the Administration. The various advocates of prompt action urged the confirmation of the nomination on its merits.

After a short debate it was decided with only four dissenting votes that the committees (so far as the Republican members can now control their action) shall report back all pending nominations forthwith (meaning at to-morrow's session of the Senate) with a view of finally disposing of all Executive business, in time for a final adjournment by Thursday or Friday at the latest.

The necessity of providing for an election of a President of the Senate pro tempore, before the close of the session, was also brought to the attention of the caucus, and as the Democrats now constitute a majority of the body, it was agreed to notify them that the Republicans will consider Senator Harris, of Tennessee, as an acceptable choice for the position, and will cheerfully acquiesce in his election.

The resignation of Senators Conkling and Platt were not in any way discussed or even referred to during the caucus proceedings. Senator Conkling is still in Washington. Senator Platt left for New York at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

A few days ago Jacob Millikey, of Scarboro, who was 97 years of age January 4th, 1881, went to a Saco tailoring establishment, selected the cloth himself, was measured for a pair of pantaloons and paid for them. He said that he had taken care of 20 cattle during the past winter.

IMPROVEMENTS IN BUCKSPORT. Capt. E. Yesterday, workmen were hoisting the boiler out of a little steamer lying at one of the wharves. An improvised derrick had been erected, by which the boiler was raised until its lower end barely cleared the edge of the wharf; the steamer moved away from her position, as if fearful of some mishap, when one of the guys broke, and boiler, derrick and all went to the bottom of the stream with a terrible splash.

If the listless, half-sick world would throw bitters and pills and nostrums to the dogs and take a good dose of physical exercise, with temperate eating and temperate conduct in all things, there would be an almost universal distribution of red cheeks. No doubt the doctor is right who says "that most of our fashionable diseases might be cured mechanically, instead of chemically, by climbing a bitterwood-tree or chopping it down, if you like, rather than swallowing a decoction of its disgusting leaves."

A KNOWING DOG. For some time past residents in the vicinity of Congress square in Portland, have missed their morning milk and finally a gentleman put himself on the watch. Saturday morning the thief was discovered. It appears the milkman leaves the cans of milk on the doorsteps. A great brindle dog came along and managed to pull out the stopper. He then tipped the can and drank up all the contents. That dog has had his last drink of milk, but he deserved to get it for his cunning.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY. Last Saturday night, four or five young fellows, headed by a young rough, called "Bub" Hathorn, all under the influence of rum, attempted to break into a little store in Lincoln, kept by an old man named Foster; they had smashed the windows and were in the act of kicking in the door, when Foster, who was inside, discharged a Colt's revolver at them, the shot taking effect on Hathorn. The bullet passed through the fleshy part of the right thigh and came out at the back, narrowly escaping the main artery. Hathorn is about 25 years old and bears a hard reputation. The revolver was a 45 calibre; and the large bullet made a painful but not necessarily dangerous wound. The sentiment at Lincoln is that young Hathorn received a just punishment for his attempted burglary.

MRS. ABBA GOOLD WOOLSON. Mrs. Woolson, having completed her course of lectures in Boston, Mr. Chas. W. Slack, of the Commonwealth, under date of April 23, writes as follows: "Mrs. Woolson is certainly one of the most, if not the most, charming of our female lecturers. She is not a mere gleaner; like Carlyle, she has her opinions, the result of later thought than his, the broader American view. She has the advantage of a disciplined mind and an easy address, and presents her subjects with clearness and vividness, sometimes rising to eloquence, as on this occasion, when reviewing the researches of archæology in Nineveh, Greece, and Central America. Complaints have been renewed that the lamps on Lime street are not lighted. There is an evident neglect of duty by somebody. We learn that the residents on that street, or at least a portion of it, are becoming indignant and propose to find out for what purpose the lamps were placed upon the street. They object to being taxed for lighting the street, while only an occasional moon relieves them from utter darkness.

MURIATIC ACID ON A "BUST." About 12 o'clock last night what appeared to be smoke was observed issuing from the basement windows of J. F. Patten's drug store. The night police at once notified one of the clerks, who was found in bed at his house on Centre street. Hastening to the store, the clerk discovered that several bottles in the cellar containing muriatic, nitric, and other acids, had in some way become broken. The store became filled with gas caused by the evaporation of the acids. There was nothing to be done but to open the doors and windows and let the stuff expend itself, as these acids are not pleasant to handle. The clerk remained on watch at the store the remainder of the night.

FOR THE LADIES. A new fancy is to have black grenadines made up over gay colored satin surah, either red, olive or green. In dresses made in the combination, the skirt is of the satin surah, with rather scanty flounces of black Spanish lace. Round waists are appearing, and are being received with great favor as well as those with shoulder pieces formed of very narrow and close shirring, which are repeated at the bottom of the wais, and extend below the belt as far as the puff, being about two inches wide. Very long waisted dresses are in fashion, and corsets are made with a view of effacing the hips and elevating the bust, recall ng the Louis XV. corsages. To complete the resemblance bustles are becoming more and more obligatory, some of them being almost as bouffant as the panlers at the side. Over these long waists are worn little, clinging capes. Pretty collarettes, to wear with black or solid colored dresses, are of white, blue, pink or crimson surah, embroidered in colors in front, and have a standing ruffle of embroidered surah, inside of which is to be worn a frill of lace or crape lisse.

THE DRIVES. The recent rains, which at this hour of writing have not ceased, have proved of incalculable benefit to our lumbermen, as, though somewhat light, they have not only served to prevent the driving pitch from falling, but have swollen the smaller water courses and given a slight rise to the rivers. Mr. J. W. Palmer arrived in this city last evening from up river. He reports his drives coming along all right; the forward drive, he says, will be in by Wednesday; the second drive is at the Katahdin Iron Works, and the third, or rear, drive is coming through the "Gulf" with good water. Mr. Palmer's success seems now assured. The West Branch of Pleasant river has been most beneficially affected by the rain, and Con. Murphy's drive will now come along all right with others. It was reported last night that the drives on the East Branch of Pleasant river were hung up. The Baskahegan logs were all sluiced at Danforth, Saturday, and will be in the Mattawamkeag river to-day. The Jellison boom was cut Saturday for the second Mattawamkeag drive, which will probably start this morning. This drive contains between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 feet. Nearly all of the lumbermen in North Aroostook, have got the logs out of the brooks into the Aroostook, and the indications now are that they will succeed in getting their lumber into the St. John market this spring.

AMUSEMENTS.

Testimonial to Deacon Duren To-night

It is very gratifying to observe the general feeling of interest in the musical demonstration of this evening, in aid of our esteemed fellow citizen, Deacon Duren. But it must not be forgotten, that while the obligations of our patrons of music, to this gentleman, are of the strongest character, those of the religious community, are indeed, if possible, stronger. For more than forty consecutive years, at whatever temporal sacrifice, Deacon Duren has been unwearied in his personal labors of mind, body and estate, to advance in every possible way this elementary and vital principle, upon which alone governments and people can permanently build. As Secretary of churches, religious associations, societies and meetings not only here but throughout the State and country, his unwearied and unremunerated labors, have been exhibited through the public press and in religious publications for more than two score years. It is not possible that such a great hearted and intelligent people as is ours, whether religious, or yet striving to become so, can permit any vacant seats in Norombega Hall to-night, to chill the heart of our worthy fellow citizen in whose behalf this demonstration is undertaken."

HAPPY HAPSBURG.

The House of Austria Elated Over the Marriage of Rudolph and Stephanie.

[From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

Since the year 1854, when Kaiser Frances Joseph took home "The Rose of Bavaria" as his bride to Kaiser-Stadt on the Danube, there has not been such a carnival of popular rejoicing in this city as now, when Kronprinz Rudolph, heir to the crown of the Austrian Empire, brings home his princess bride from the historical land of Brabant. The silver-wedding festivities of two years ago were of grander interest, because of the gorgeous artistic procession arranged by Hans Makart and the artists of the city. But they were by no means so popular as the present wedding festivities. One of the innumerable illustrated papers published for the occasion says all nationalities of Austria join in the festival celebrating "the bringing home of a bride from ancient Brabant by a scion of Hapsburg." The Austrian people are all more enthusiastic because the union is one of love, and not politics, and because the native land of the bride is so intimately connected with Austria's historical past. We give the warmest welcome to the royal Princess. We welcome in her the rosy future of Austria, with the love that has ever proved true as gold. The enthusiasm of our welcome to Stephanie awaits responsive echoes in the Alps, and reaches to the Adriatic."

A RIGHT ROYAL WELCOME.

This is only a weak reflex of the warmth of welcome given the Princess Stephanie by her future subjects. For weeks and for months nothing else has been talked about, and artists have been at work designing decorations for the great event.

A few minutes before 11 the chief master of ceremonies, Count Hunyaki, announced to Oberst Hofemeister Hohenlohe all was ready. The latter then informed the Emperor of the fact. At 11 the procession entered the Church of St. Augustine, preceded by officers and pages of the Truchsess (Lord High Steward), clad in red and gold. Then came chamberlains, magnates, privy councillors, Knights of the Golden Fleece, officials of the court, Archdukes, and foreign Princes, two by two, with their attendants.

After a short interval, —

THE CROWN PRINCE ADVANCED,

in a general's gala uniform, wearing the Belgian Order of Leopold, and accompanied by Count Bomballes.

There was another interval, and then came the Emperor, in a general's uniform, wearing the Order of Leopold and a collar of gold of the Golden Fleece. By his side was the King of the Belgians, in the uniform of his Austrian Regiment, wearing the grand cross of the Order of St. Stephen, and followed by a numerous train of generals of the guard and members of the Belgian court.

Then came another interval. A joyous murmur ran among the spectators, and then came the Empress of Austria, wearing a diamond crown, her train borne by three pages. With her walked the Queen of the Belgians, in a magnificent robe. Between them was but somewhat pale, her long train borne by four beautiful pages dressed in red.

On entering the church the trains were taken by the maids of honor. The pages then formed in line at the church door.

Then followed the Archduchess, foreign Princess and ladies of the palace. At the church door the procession was received by the Cardinal Archbishop of Prague, Prince Schwarzenburg, who led the way with numerous clergy down the long aisle to the altar.

AT THE ALTAR.

The imperial and royal pairs then took their places underneath the canopy on the evangelist side of the altar, while the bridal pair walked to the high altar. There they knelt in prayer, tears being visible in the eyes of the bride. The Cardinal Archbishop then proceeded with the ceremony. At the moment the rings were exchanged, peals broke forth from the bells of the city, and salvos of artillery were fired.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT.

Another dispatch says: An affecting incident occurred at the most solemn portion of the ceremony. The Princess, who had maintained apparent composure up to that moment, now broke completely down and burst forth into a fit of weeping, crying aloud and trembling with long suppressed nervous excitement. Prince Rudolph was calm and collected, acted with uncommon good sense, and succeeded finally in calming the agitation of his bride. The tears and timidity of the Princess Stephanie had a marked effect upon the large attendance of royal and noble ladies, and caused many of them also to shed tears.

GRAND GALA DINNER.

A grand gala dinner was given in Hofburg, then being one hundred covers in gold and sixty-four in silver. All the representatives of foreign countries and the highest dignitaries of the Empire were present. On the right of the Kaiser sat the Princess Stephanie, Prince Rudolph, and Princess Victoria of Prussia. On his left were the King of Belgium, the Prince of Wales, the Countess of Flanders, and Prince William of Prussia. Opposite the Emperor sat the Empress, having the Count of Flanders on her left. The music was by the court band, under the direction of Johann Strauss. After the sixth course the Emperor gave a toast to the happy union of Rudolph and Stephanie.

THE BRIDAL PROCESSION

walked from the Hofburg Palace to the Church of St. Augustine, through the Argus passage, which route is always used on such occasions. The display in the church was magnificent. Daylight was excluded and the sacred edifice was lighted with countless gas jets around the pillars and walls. Their imperial and Royal Majesties were much affected when they embraced the bride and bridegroom. The Archbishop of Vienna and Primate of Hungary, assisted Cardinal Schwarzenberg.

ALL THE DIPLOMATS,

generals, and other dignitaries assembled in Hofburg, and were presented to Prince Rudolph and bride, who, later in the day, departed for the Chateau of Laxenberg. They were enthusiastically welcomed by the people and the town was illuminated. The Prince of Wales will proceed to Pesth to be present at the entry of Rudolph and Stephanie.

THE DRESSES.

The Princess Stephanie wore a magnificent robe of cloth of silver, with a train elaborate in embroidery, orange blossoms arranged in bunches looping up the flounce, and a veil of Brussels lace specially made for the occasion.

Her mother, the Queen, wore a blue velvet dress, trimmed with lace, and the Empress wore a pale gray dress, trimmed with Brussels point lace.

THE EMPEROR'S KINDNESS.

In commemoration of the marriage the Emperor Francis Joseph has founded twenty-two scholarships at various schools, and has given 100,000 florins for the free endowment of ten orphans' establishment for the education of daughters of officers. He has also granted complete or partial amnesty to thirty-three persons imprisoned for various offences.

Miracles of Healing Unparelleled in Medical History.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the great natural blood purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great skin beautifier and skin restorative, externally, have shown its grand curative power in scrofula, white swellings, ulcers, erysipelas, swelled neck, scrofulous inflammations, mercurial affections, old sores, eruptions of the skin, sore eyes and scalp affections, with dry, thin and falling hair; and when the CUTICURA, a Medicinal Jelly, and the CUTICURA SOAP, prepared from it, are applied to external symptoms, the cures affected by the CUTICURA REMEDIES are marvellous.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULA.—Hon. William Taylor, Boston, State Senator of Massachusetts, permanently cured of a humor of the face and scalp that had been treated unsuccessfully for twelve years by many of Boston's best physicians and most noted specialists, as well as European authorities. FELLOWS' SYRUP

Its first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. If also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened, and the blood purified.

The various kinds of waste or decay that affect the human body, though attended each with some symptom not common with the rest, agree very much in this, that the basis in all is nearly the same. It is generally conceded, that the majority of diseases are accompanied by faulty digestion; and such being the case, we must, in order to cure such diseases, cause the organs of digestion to perform their proper functions. No remedy has before been discovered which has so beneficial an influence on these organs as Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

First class envelopes are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $2.75 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.

"FAVORITE REMEDY"

Recommended by Clergymen, Statesmen and Others.

SALT RHEUM.

Hon. J. H. Snyder, of Saugerties, N. Y., state fully testifies to the ability of "Favorite Remedy" as exhibited in the case of his little daughter who was covered with Salt Rheum from head to foot. "Favorite Remedy," says this thankful father, "relieved my girl altogether from this fearful affliction, Salt Rheum. This occurred two years ago, and not a sign of the disease has since appeared. What it did for this child it will do for all who use it.

LIVER DISEASE.

Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburgh, N. Y., for several years Captain of the Troy police, says: "I have been for a long time a great sufferer from derangement of the liver, and after using many of the medicines recommended for that complaint, Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is the only one, which gave me relief. I gladly believe that the "Favorite Remedy" is a good, honest preparation; one that may be depended upon."

CHRONIC LIVER DISEASE.

Rev. J. G. Smith, of Hartford, Ct., says: "being a great sufferer from Chronic Liver Disease and Indigestion, I at last tried your "Favorite Remedy" and found immediate relief. Two bottles, which worked wonders in my general system."
